Does the Black Church have any responsibility in ending Black oppression and exploitation in a racist white world of power? Or does it exist simply to enable us to tolerate abuse and inequityuntil we find relief and salvation beyond the grave? Does it make sense for Black people to participate in a religious worship that has no relationship to building a Black Nation? Only the Pan-African Orthodox Christian Church offers to a subjugated and suffering Black people a religious life in which God and Jesus are the focus and power behind the revolutionary struggle to build a Black Nation which can liberate us of all our earthly sufferings.
